

🇫🇷 Day 13 · Monday, Aug 31, 2026 · PARIS — Montmartre + Eiffel Summit finale

Prepared for Divyansh · Pure-Vegetarian Edition · Europe 2026

Solo · Pure vegetarian (no meat, no fish, no seafood, egg avoided) Your last full Paris day — Eurostar to Amsterdam leaves early tomorrow. Veg phrase: "Je suis végétarien strict, sans viande, sans poisson, sans fruits de mer."

⚠️ MONDAY CLOSURES — read before you plan the afternoon Today is Monday. These are CLOSED: - ❌ Picasso Museum (Marais) — closed Mondays - ❌ Musée Rodin ("The Thinker" garden) — closed Mondays - ❌ Marché des Enfants Rouges (oldest covered market, Marais) — closed Mondays So today = free outdoor Paris: Montmartre, Marais streets, covered passages, canal — and the Eiffel summit at night. No museum interiors needed.

🕒 WHEN TO WAKE / LEAVE — relaxed morning

- 08:00–08:30 — Wake slow, proper breakfast near the hostel. No timed entry to catch this morning.

- ~08:30 — Head toward Montmartre (short metro or a 20-min walk from Gare du Nord).
- Target Sacré-Cœur by ~09:00 — early means crowd-free photos on the basilica steps and empty lanes.

Why these spots

- ★ Sacré-Cœur — white-domed basilica crowning Montmartre; free entry, and the steps give one of the best free panoramas of Paris. Go early. (Optional: climb the dome for a small fee.)

- 🌟 Montmartre village — Paris's old artists' hill: Place du Tertre street painters, the tiny Clos Montmartre vineyard, Rue de l'Abreuvoir (most-photographed lane), Le Mur des Je t'aime.
- 🌟 Place des Vosges / Marais — Paris's oldest planned square (1612), symmetrical arcades, Victor Hugo's corner house. The crooked medieval streets are the best aimless-wander zone in the city.
- 💎 Covered passages — gorgeous 1800s glass-roofed arcades, mosaic floors, old bookshops — a true hidden gem.
- 💎 Canal Saint-Martin — tree-lined canal with arched iron footbridges; locals picnic by the water. Perfect slow-down before the finale.
- 🗼 Eiffel Summit — all the way to the top at night, watching Paris light up, then the 10 PM sparkle from Champ de Mars — the ideal last-night bookend.

TRANSPORT — Aug 31 (Metro)

- To Montmartre: Metro Line 4 → Line 12 to Abbesses (deepest station in Paris — take the lift, don't climb the spiral), or Anvers (Line 2) then the Montmartre funicular up the hill. The funicular is covered by a normal metro ticket — use it, save the step-climb.
- Montmartre → Le Marais: Metro (Line 12 → Line 1) to Saint-Paul / Chemin Vert, ~20 min.
- Marais → passages → Canal: walkable or one metro hop; passages sit around Bourse/Grands Boulevards, the canal around République/Jacques Bonsergent.
- To the Eiffel Tower (evening): Metro Line 6 → Bir-Hakeim, or RER C → Champ de Mars – Tour Eiffel, or Line 9 → Trocadéro (postcard front-on view first). ~30–40 min from Marais/Canal.
- Cost: single metro t+ ticket ~€2.15; a carnet/Navigo Easy is cheaper per ride. Everything today is inside normal metro zones — no special ticket needed (that was only for Versailles).

TICKETS — Aug 31

EIFFEL TOWER SUMMIT — TO BOOK (do this now)

- Book only at toureiffel.paris (the official site — avoid resellers).
- Target: ~21:00, a "Lift to the SUMMIT (Sommet)" ticket, ~€29. Choose Summit, not just 2nd floor — you want the very top for the finale.
- Why 21:00: you catch the last light + the city switching on its lights from the top, then descend for the 10 PM sparkle from Champ de Mars.
- Book a few days ahead — summit slots sell out. If exact 21:00 is gone, any 20:30–21:30 evening summit slot works.

- Download the e-ticket/QR offline. Security screening at the base; no large bags.

Everything else today = free / walk-in

- Sacré-Cœur (free), Montmartre streets, Place des Vosges, covered passages, Canal Saint-Martin — all no-ticket.

VEGETARIAN FOOD — Aug 31

Lunch (~12:00, Montmartre / South Pigalle):

- Plenty of cafés and creperies — a veg galette/crêpe (buckwheat, cheese + mushroom + egg-optional), a big salad, or falafel. 42 Degrés (raw-vegan) and Hank Vegan Burger are within reach for a proper veg meal. Pin the nearest on HappyCow.

Falafel snack (~14:30, Marais):

- Rue des Rosiers — the legendary falafel street. L'As du Fallafel is the famous one: a huge falafel pita with hummus, fried aubergine, salad, tahini — fully veg, cheap, iconic.

Farewell dinner (19:00):

- Le Potager du Marais — cosy vegetarian/vegan French bistro. Dishes: veg bourguignon, tartines, gratins, French comfort food done meat-free. A fitting last-Paris-night meal.
- Alt: Hank Vegan Burger (Marais) — a fast, hearty veg burger + fries.

TIPS — Aug 31

-  At Abbesses, take the lift — otherwise it's ~30 m of spiral stairs.
-  The Montmartre funicular is covered by a normal metro ticket — use it up the hill.
-  Book the Eiffel Summit tonight/now on toureiffel.paris (~21:00, ~€29, "Summit") — it's the one unbooked thing left and slots go fast.
- ✨ 10 PM sparkle from Champ de Mars = your last Paris memory; the tower glitters ~5 min on the hour after dark.
-  Pre-pack tonight — the Eurostar leaves early tomorrow from Gare du Nord (a 2-min walk from the hostel). Don't leave packing for the morning.
-  Lighter walking than yesterday but still ~6–8 km — comfy shoes again.
-  Remember the Monday closures above — don't waste a metro trip toward Picasso, Rodin, or the Enfants Rouges market today.

Movies, Songs & Pop Culture Here (Bollywood + Hollywood)

Montmartre is one of the most-filmed neighbourhoods on Earth — you're walking through movie sets all day.

Hollywood / French cinema

- Amélie (2001) — the definitive Montmartre film. Exact spots you'll pass:
- Café des Deux Moulins (15 Rue Lepic) — the café where Amélie waitresses. Still there, still themed. Grab a coffee inside.
- Maison Collignon grocery (56 Rue des Trois Frères) — Amélie's corner épicerie.
- Sacré-Cœur steps — where she leads the blind man; and the base of the hill.
- The carousel at the foot of the butte (near Place Saint-Pierre, below the basilica).
- Canal Saint-Martin (your 16:45 stop) — where she skips stones across the water.
- Moulin Rouge! (2001, Baz Luhrmann) — the red windmill cabaret on Boulevard de Clichy (South Pigalle, right by your lunch zone). The real Moulin Rouge still lights up nightly.
- La Vie en Rose / La Môme (2007) — the Édith Piaf biopic; Piaf sang and grew up around these Montmartre/Pigalle streets. Hum "La Vie en Rose" on the basilica steps.
- Ronin (1998) — Robert De Niro thriller with chase scenes threading Paris.
- Midnight in Paris (2011, Woody Allen) — the whole nostalgic-Paris fantasy; the Montmartre/Left-Bank cafés and midnight streets are the film's soul.

Bollywood in Paris

- Befikre (2016) — Ranveer Singh & Vaani Kapoor's Paris romance; they roam Montmartre / Sacré-Cœur, the Seine, and the Eiffel. Basically a Paris tourism reel.
- Queen (2013/2014) — Kangana Ranaut's Rani wanders Montmartre and the Sacré-Cœur area on her solo-in-Paris leg before Amsterdam — fitting, since that's literally your route too (Paris today → Amsterdam tomorrow).

Amsterdam (tomorrow) — quick teaser, full version in Day-14

- The Fault in Our Stars (2014), Queen (2014, Kangana) — the Amsterdam segment, and Ocean's Twelve (2004). Exact canal-side spots are in tomorrow's doc.
